

Chocolate Dripping Cake & Hershey Bar

Text and photography by Nanci Jarvis

A person can never have enough chocolate! Here's a cake that's just dripping with chocolate, and a "Hershey" bar chaser. Each is 1-inch scale.

Chocolate Dripping Cake

What You'll Need:

- Plastic cap from spice jar. Mine measures 1½" diameter, ¾" high.
- Wood disc slightly larger than jar cap, about 2" diameter
- Acrylic paint: White, Brown, Silver
- Paintbrush
- Tacky Glue
- Green leaves (Mine were trimmed from a Christmas arrangement.)
- Berry - Dried and painted red

1. Paint wood disc silver. Set aside.
2. Paint cap white, two coats.
3. Glue cap to wood disc.
4. When dry, paint two coats of chocolate brown on top, and use paintbrush to paint drippings, extending some onto the plate.
5. Glue three green leaves to very top. In center, glue a red berry.

"Hershey" Bar

What You'll Need:

- Foam-type meat tray
- Foil wrapper from candy advertisement for Hershey Bar
- Tacky Glue
- X-Acto or utility knife

1. Cut out candy label from a store flyer.
2. Cut a piece of foam meat tray, just slightly larger than label.
3. Apply glue to edges and top of foam.
4. Cover with foil wrapper
5. Put glue on foil and apply label.
